

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 13, 1878.

PENCILLETES.

It begins to look slightly winterish again.

Knoxville will be entirely without any coal now for a spell.

"Cravat societies" are the latest social sensations in Atlanta.

Merchants now begin to think of preparing for Christmas holidays.

The shade trees begin to present the appearance of an umbrella struck by lightning.

Three car loads of cattle were loaded last night for shipment from this point to Virginia.

Eighteen members of the legal fraternity fell victims to the yellow fever scourge, says the Atlanta.

A move is on foot to introduce the Moffett bell punch in Georgia during the present session of the Legislature.

There will be preaching at Broad Street M. E. Church South, to-night at 7 o'clock, by Rev. D. H. Dickey, pastor of Mabry Street Chapel.

The refugees from Southern cities and towns, who have been scattered through East Tennessee and other portions, continue to flock home in large numbers.

It is a general rule to love things because they are lovable, and we love them for their own sake. There are exceptions to this general rule, however. No man ever loved a tooth for its sake.

A large party of emigrants passed through, on yesterday's train, from upper East Tennessee, bound west. There was quite a tussle at the car shed among emigrant agents to sell them tickets.

Chairman Kearns, in his repairs on the old court house, has concluded to take off the old plastering on the ceiling of both court rooms, below and above, and supply it with ceiling plank, which will be much better and safer.

In accordance with a resolution passed by the City Council, Alderman Cruze, chairman of the Market and Building Committee, is having erected a substantial railing around the city scales, which will be a great advantage in the matter of weighing stock of all kinds.

Under the change of schedule, which goes into effect to-day on the Knoxville and Ohio railroad, the passenger train leaves Knoxville at 4:15 p. m., arriving at Careyville 7:15 p. m. The schedule coming south is not changed, leaving Careyville at 6 a. m. and arriving here at 10:20 a. m.

Personal.

Maj. Thomas O'Connor and family left yesterday for Nashville.

Judge R. M. Barton and family went down yesterday, returning to their homes at Chattanooga.

Gen. J. B. Hood, of both Confederate and twin-baby fame, passed down the road yesterday with his family, of ten children, three pairs of twins, returning home from Tate Spring, where they have spent the season.

Rev. J. A. Ruble, of Maryville, Presiding Elder of the Knoxville District, Holston Conference, M. E. Church, made us a call yesterday.

Mr. John Andes, of Sevierville, the CHRONICLE's correspondent, "Sevier," was in the city and made us a call yesterday.

Chief Justice, J. G. Deaderick, of the Supreme bench, left last night for Jonesboro'. Judge T. J. Freeman and wife left for home yesterday; and Judges W. F. Cooper and Peter Turner leave this morning. Judge Robt. McFarland and wife will probably be in the city a day or two yet.

Mr. J. W. Griffith, representing a New York mercantile establishment, arrived in the city yesterday morning from New York, and left again on a Southern trip.

Religious Revival at Kingston.

We are informed that an interesting revival of religion has just closed in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Kingston, of which Rev. J. C. Wright is pastor, resulting in a number of conversions and accessions to the Church above named. The meeting was not a "union revival meeting" as has been before stated, but was the continuation of the first quarterly meeting of Rev. T. H. Russell, Presiding Elder of the district. It is said that there has not been another such revival, and of so general and moving an influence in the place for fifteen years. Ministers of other denominations and churches generously joined in and assisted in the work. Rev. Mr. Russell is very much liked as a Presiding Elder, and is emphatically the proper man for that work, is the universal testimony. To his untiring energies and labors is due much of the success of the meeting.

Supreme Court.

Before the final adjournment of the Supreme Court yesterday decrees were rendered as follows:

Mary Ferriter adm'r x etc. vs. M. W. Huffaker, et al; cause remanded.

Julia Eaton vs. the State; motion for costs of officer D. M. Taylor in the case allowed.

In the following causes, the petitions to rehear were dismissed:

Martin Shea vs. Jos. A. Mabry et al.; McReynolds vs. McCallie; Prigmore vs. the E. T. Va. & Ga. R. Co.; J. P. Spence & Co. vs. Wheeler Iron & Coal Co.

After the completing and signing up of the record court adjourned, till court in course, the 24 Monday in September, 1879.

Adjournment of Supreme Court.
After a continuous and unabated term of eight weeks, the Supreme Court came to a final adjournment about 5 o'clock yesterday evening, having adjourned from the morning session till that time to allow the clerk time to get up the records. There were on the bench at the time of adjournment Chief Justice Deaderick and Associates Cooper, McFarland and Turner, and Special Justice H. H. Ingersoll, in the place of Judge Freeman, who had gone home.

The court has devoted itself closely to business, and during the term something between 250 and 300 causes have been heard and disposed of. There still remains a large number of causes on the docket of the Eastern Division which they could not reach. The next court in course here will convene on the second Monday of September, 1879.

The efficient and obliging Clerk of the court, Mr. J. F. Deaderick, and his assistant, Mr. B. G. Barnitz, have our cordial thanks for the many courtesies extended and valuable assistance rendered in aiding us to get up the report from day to day.

For the full, comprehensive and intelligent abstract of opinions which have appeared in our columns week after week, from the beginning of the term, we and our readers are indebted to our special reporter, Col. F. A. Reeve, one of the most learned, clear-headed and reliable lawyers at the Knoxville bar. His abstracts have been eagerly sought after by the legal profession generally, they knowing them to be correct and exact.

An Old Land Mark Gone.

The old frame work which has been standing and pointing heavenwards at the south end of the city hall for many years past, generally known as the Market Square gallows, and used for the purpose of drying out the hose of the fire engines after use, was yesterday cut down, chopped up and hauled off for kindling. Such a proceeding was rendered necessary, from the fact that both the timbers were almost rotted in two at the ground and it was liable at any time to fall of its own accord and do some damage. One advantage to be realized from its disappearance will relieve parties who, stay near it from answering so many questions, for since it was erected, there has hardly been a stranger who has caught sight of it, but has made the inquiry what it was for, and the universal testimony has been they never saw anything like it before.

Methodist Episcopal Church Extension.

The general committee on Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church met in Philadelphia last week, Bishop Simpson presiding. Statements were made showing that the receipts for the ten months of 1878 on general account and loan fund account amounted to $102,086; balance from 1877, $13,115; disbursements on general and loan fund accounts, $98,413. During the year 222 Churches were aided by donations and loans. It was resolved that the apportionment of amounts to be raised by collections be the same as last year, $137,000. A number of appropriations were made to the various Conferences. Among them, to Holston Conference, $1,200; Tennessee and Georgia, $800 each.

Reunion at Beaver Creek Church.
POWELL'S STATION, Nov. 11, '78.

MR. EDITOR: We wish to notify the people through your columns that there will be a reunion of all the old and young people of this and surrounding neighborhoods held at the Beaver Creek Church, two miles south of Powell's Station, on Saturday, Nov. 16. The exercises will commence promptly at 9 o'clock a. m.; also a musical concert at night, open at 7 p. m. This meeting will be of interest to all lovers of pleasure and music.

The music during the day will be selected from the "New Harp of Columbia" and American Tune Book. This will be something old, yet new to the people of this age. Everybody is invited to attend.

Respectfully, H. M. BROWN,
